OT to Enable Sex Workers to Change Lifestyle

October 6, 2008

Hi,

I am a final year student. As one of our assignments, we are to look into setting up an Occupational Therapy service (sadly not a real one) and then present and justify funding/bid for money in a Dragon's den-like situation.

My group has decided to focus on offering an OT service to prostitutes who want to change their lifestyles. Does anyone have any advice about which MOHO assessments and outcome measurements would be best to use?

Many thanks in advance,

Karen Stephens

Dear Karen:

My suggestions:
OPHI-II as number 1, well administrated.
Role checklist

WEIS if you need to go deep on enviromental impact.
OSA

Hello Karen,

Would it be an idea to use a more neutral and literal, up to date term such as sex workers (not prostitutes) ?

It certainly is well inspired, and a real choice for a 'life style redesign' project.

Good luck!

Hello everyone

My group and I would like to say a huge thank you to everyone who has responded on the above topic. We are very grateful for all your thoughts and advice.

Many thanks

Karen
