Introducing the Occupational Self Assessment - Short Form!

February 2, 2018

The Model of Human Occupation Clearinghouse is excited to announce the availability of the Occupational Self Assessment - Short Form (OSA-SF) on MOHO Web!

https://www.moho.uic.edu/

Like the OSA, the OSA-SF is a validated measure designed to assess one's perceived occupational competence and value, supporting the client by informing goal setting and treatment planning. Recognizing the hectic demands of occupational therapy practice, the OSA-SF was specifically tailored to increase clinical utility by decreasing the length of administration. Within 7-15 minutes, occupational therapists can give voice to a client's perception of their competence in valued occupations.

The MOHO Clearinghouse would like to thank those who contributed to the development of the OSA-SF. Their hard work has expanded the accessibility of the Model of Human Occupation to diverse communities that can benefit from occupational therapy services. A detailed article regarding the development and validation of the OSA-SF is expected to be published in the American Journal of Occupational Therapy.

The OSA-SF is available on MOHO Web to all who have previously purchased the OSA.

Happy New Year!

Yes! I agree. Thank you for all your work that helps us do ours. I appreciate this and look forward to using this tool! I can never do a "functional assessment" without this part.
